A NEW feature in the Government Gazette is last is published for general information :the publication of a report from the Tung Wah Hospital Committee. This report has doubtless been suggested to the Committee. and as the Hospital is aided by the Government it is only right that such report should be made. There is not very much information in the document beyond the statistics of the number of patients and the mortality amongst them. As stated by Dr. Ayres, the patients are of the very poorest class, and many of them are admitted to the Hospital in a moribund condition, but the mortality is high even taking these facts into consideration. The Hospital does good, however, in various ways, one being the restitution of homeless and kidnapped girls to their parents, though this, days, like many other matters in which the Committee busy themselves, is scarcely legitimate work for such an institution. It might, we should have thought, have been safely left to the Police. We are glad to hear that vaccination is vigorously practised by the Hospital. The Chairman says that vaccinators S.W. THE re-establishment of Chinese rule over Kashgar and Khotan appears to have made a profound impression on the Western world. Even when the topic of the hour was the burning Eastern Question, and the European Congress about to meet, we find some of the leading London journals discussing the exploits of Tso Tsung-Tang's "braves" in Central Asia. The success which has attended the arms of the Chinese general was wholly unexpected in Europe, and it is stated that the Russians, on lookers though they were, so to speak, of the contest, were quite unprepared for the issue. was not sufficiently taken into account, nor the fact that their troops were better armed astonishment at the result of the campaign; sight and military skill, and think too little of the fortuitous circumstances under which it was concluded. Turning to a copy of the Regulations of the 162 Corps, I read under the rdinance there given (and I may here remark it would be no great mistake for a polyglot edition to be now printed and supplied to us for our guidance and caution) Article " II .- Commissioned officers to be appointed by the Governor. The Governor to appoint such commissioned officers as to him shall seem proper for such corps." Appoint, not select. The power of appointment there could never be any question about. Now it seems that whatever course it was intended should be adopted, it was distinctly understood by the officer who was to enrol the corps, and the Governor who was to give to its right of existence the imperial sanction. What that unquestionable understanding was Immot nowable to say. Memory, like fortune, is but a fickle jade at the best, except in some few isolated cases like those of Carlyle and Sala; and the time I speak of is a good many year: back, still I have a rather confused idea that there was a most enthusiastic meeting shortly after the Corps was enrolled, when certain members were selected and approved by Sir Heronles Robinson. This impression is strongthened by a reference to the title page of the Regulations alluded to, where I read "Officers first elected 1st April, 1862," and immediately ufterwards, " Their grades chosen 5th April, upon the mind after this. The words underlined are italicised by I think but one impression can remain Regulars, and expect humouring moderately, more especially in regard to the appointment of officers. I have been supposing, of course throughout this correspondence that in certain instances certain other results shall have transpired would have ensued if the ballet had been differently arranged.

When the two Licutemants of the second Gracious Majesty's birthday 1864, only two candidates appeared. I recollect this circum: stance well, as the more popular gentleman got second place, simply, I believe, because to the indefatigable labours of the other was the

We must not forget, howover, that there was another good organisation, only the foundation upon which it was built caved in precipitating certain unfortunate wretches into a Slough of Despund.

"In another column—but with the sentiments he expresses we cannot agree." I have exrefully read through your article more than once, and having compared it with my letter, I am simply astonished to find that we are so much in accord. There is little I said that may be called sentiment proper, which does not resolve itself into the statement that a miscarriage of popular requirements took place when the system of

It is quite true that when the fiscal stations were placed round the island of Hongkong, Macao had also to submit to the same vexation. Were not our powerful allies, who had their rights defined by treaty, granting what they thought the Chinose were entitled to ?. In treating with the Portuguese in an identical manner did not the Chinese again recognise our sovereign rights? Not being a treaty port, of course the foreign tariff could not have been enforced. British as well as the vessels of other nationalities do not pay any duty to the Chinese Custom House on enve our harbour could they do so if this was a port of China like Amoy Canton, &c. L. Be if therefore clearly understood that the Chinese have no Custom House in Macao, no more than Hougkong has in any part of the island. Chinese merchants and Chinese junks may arbuit to the puression of their constituted Government and oall mandarin soncozos. With that we have as much reason to bother ourselves as the Hong: congites, and we give as much protection to them as the British Government, though we are not subjected to the action of a Chamber of Commeres to remind us of our duty.
